FOW began 2020 with plans for growth and hope for a productive year. With both a new Executive Director and a new Board President, 2020 was bound to be different, but in many ways we anticipated the familiarity of a usual year of projects and programs—until the year became one like no other. “I hope you are safe and well” became the new greeting, and words like “pivot” and “resilience” entered our everyday vernacular.

FOW was faced with a paradox. COVID-19 presented challenges to our work, from limits on group volunteer trash cleanups and delays of capital projects to cancellation of events and Trail Ambassador-guided walks. Yet, despite closures and constraints all around us, we welcomed a record number of visitors to Wissahickon Valley Park who sought an escape to the fresh air and beauty of our urban oasis. In a year with so many changes and hardships, the park remained a constant source of comfort. We heard from so many of you about rediscovering a love for the park or finding one you didn’t know you had.

Determining how to engage with this surge of visitors while adapting our conservation mission to best COVID-19 safety protocols required more creativity than ever. In being proactive and flexible, FOW discovered how to turn potential obstacles into successes through programs like Wissaheroes, whose solo stewardship efforts collectively cleared massive amounts of accumulated litter or our Virtual Valley, which kept our nature-loving community connected online to all things Wissahickon.

Through technology, FOW found new ways to keep going that ultimately strengthened our community engagement, development, and stewardship. It allowed staff to safely work remotely and streamlined office operations. The ease and accessibility of virtual programming enabled us to connect with larger audiences than we ever could in person and at less cost, so we could invest those resources into the park. Although born of necessity, the many benefits of this format will inform how we conduct programs moving forward.

The pandemic has made clear that our public lands are vital infrastructure that benefits everyone, although not everyone has felt welcome and safe in the great outdoors. As we reflect on our projects and programs, we have engaged a consultant to work with us as we seek to center diversity, equity, inclusion, and justice in all facets of our internal and external operations. This work continues into 2021 and will be foundational to our next strategic planning process.

Despite challenges, we ended 2020 with more friends than ever and financially stronger. We celebrate achievements we never thought possible and new relationships that will enhance our mission in 2021 and beyond. We are grateful to everyone who shares our love of the Wissahickon, because together we will create a cleaner, greener, and more equitable Wissahickon Valley Park.

We made new friends.

FOW membership grew by 15%.

Executive Director
2020 was a very unusual year for Friends of the Wissahickon. It turned out much better financially than we had thought possible when the COVID-19 virus struck early in the year. As a result of strong fundraising, we ended 2020 with a balance of nearly $283,000 in funds without donor restrictions—the highest we have had in many years. Our expenses in 2020 were well below plan, a result of pandemic-related project delays and cost savings in operating virtually.

In addition, FOW was able to obtain a Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) loan of $126,000. As a result, we fortunately did not have to lay off any of our dedicated staff members.

From a financial standpoint, we are in good shape as we move further into 2021 and plan to resume regular operation and spending.

Thank you to all of those who contributed to FOW in 2020 so we can continue pursuing our mission to conserve and improve our beloved park.

Our partner Let’s Go Outdoors took FOW’s Little Friends of the Wissahickon community environmental learning program online, engaging with 165 children and their families and extending the program beyond the Philadelphia School District to new groups and audiences.
DONORS

Friends of the Wissahickon wishes to extend thanks to all those who financially supported our work in 2020. Many individuals, foundations, and corporations gave generously to help fund FOW’s programs and operation. We are grateful for every gift we receive and are pleased to list the following contributors whose cumulative donations were above $250.

- Current members of FOW’s Board of Directors
- Current members of the Society of Generous Friends, who have contributed $1,000 or more. These major gifts are unrestricted and support the mission of Friends of the Wissahickon.
- Deceased

WITH SPECIAL RECOGNITION TO OUR NATIONAL, STATE, & CITY PARTNERS:

- National Fish & Wildlife Foundation
- Pennsylvania Department of Community & Economic Development
- Pennsylvania Department of Conservation & Natural Resources
- Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection
- Philadelphia Parks & Recreation
- Philadelphia Water Department

320 individual Wissaheroes at 288 cleanup sessions contributed 1,087 total volunteer hours to remove 669 bags/13,380 pounds of trash! Thanks to The Cedars House Café and Paper Trail Bike Café for being designated Wissahero cleanup kit pick-up spots.
